A do by budding artists

14 Jul 2008, 0000 hrs IST, TNN

This was an art show with a difference.

For the works of established artists weren't on display at the Bodhi art gallery; instead, young students of art showcased their talent here on Saturday evening. What's more, their works were selected by an eminent jury of specialists from the field. And senior artists took some time off to come and appreciate the works of Sandeep Pisalkar, Shreyas Karle, Sajeev Visveswaran, Nilanajan Bannerjee, Debanan Sasmal, Shaikh Asgharally and Boshudhara Mukherjee.

Hosts Sharmishta Ray, Krupa Amin and Kanchi Mehta spoke about these youngsters' unusual works (an inverted weighing scale, large horns and an antique three wheeler) as guests took a dekho between sipping wine and munching on stuffed mushrooms and chicken canapes.

Bijoy Anand was seen on the art circuit after long; so was Krsna Mehta who spent adequate time catching up with good friend Brinda Miller. Art critic Ranjit Hoskote dropped by as well, and was heard discussing the works with serigraph specialist Lavesh Jagasia. There couldn't be a more perfect welcome for the future of Mumbai's art scene.
